Summary:

Facing the crisis may tell us and teach us what we had done badly before and show the mistakes and circumstances which influenced this economic status. Inconsistence and the diversity of the proposals and solutions can cause a panic state. Both of the crisis, economic and food, ought to be manipulated to cooperate together not to stand against each other. Solving of the crisis is like mathematics. The crisis solution formula brings many numbers in this dangerous game. Even though we know all those numbers we do not know the result.

Essay:

Nihil sine causa or everything happens for a reason... There are no accidents... But what was the main purpose, which pushed the human being into this gap?? Where can be solutions found only hardly... Question is a matter at issue and many ideas are appearing now in the mass media.. What is the best? What should we vote for? Where is the right path to step on? Government and the most important authorities spread many new warnings daily about the food and economic crisis we are facing now. They say we are running low of food supplies and the high prices will push us down, down to the starvation. Decision is needed and properly plan has to be brought to the government. The only thing we do not have enough now is the time. People are dying, starving and the women are crying because of those poor children out there.. their children. This not a fictional situation.. Crisis takes its due in many countries. Majority of inhabitants on the earth spends more than half of their money on living and its costs. When the price moves up, it's a hard pill to swallow for them. In this situations comes usually crime. People had to steal, mine out because they want to survive. Being on the point of extinction drive people round the bend. But also there are some poeple. Some very specific kind of humans.. Starvation bussinessmen, greedy of gain. They want to be seen in their best. They want to create some marvel about their persona. The stolen food, illegally gained, is delivered in their hands. Instead of helping the poor, they sell the food for higher prices. Armed groups come to the cities, behind the police district, where the food is wanted. Food crisis is hand in glove with the energy crisis. High prices of petroleum have overcharged the transit recently. The big bio fuel boom made a negative contribution too. The people's consumption of fuel gets bigger and bigger everyday. Electricity powerplants are exhausted of the massive production. Energy stock lists show the lack of productivity. But people have still cakes and ale. They do not care about those things. If they have what they want they do not care about it. Everyday routine goes like clockwork. But the fossil fuel and electricity power, both of them, are weak. Weak for the biggest quest of their duty – to serve the humankind. They need a strong, clever and ecologically based collaborator. Lines here are nothing just facts about this cold shadow behind us. I think the society might as well focus its ideas to this admonitory case. Numbers of citizens and hungry consuming society are growing. Flushes of immediate request are not only once in a blue moon. Market and interrogation are weak because of standards. They have moved in the recent years. Husbandria should be primed a pump to recover and be able to satisfy all the tackle. Serum for the agriculture should come quickly and aesthetic. New fields in bigger numbers would solve the problem. As cars need the fuel to move as cities need fields. New fields are the easiest way how to hit the food crisis nail on the head. Energy of the future lies in the special powerplants. Fusion is its name. Fusion reactors are just a conception now. Sooner or later they should take the place of the most massive producer of energy. Bringing the strong partner to this energy game, with resources which are hardly to be consumed, the energy production can move forward, out of the deep waters and the lack of requestion coverage.
